Four Men Elected To House Committee By Acclamation

GOLF MATCH WITH VARSITY ON SATURDAY

McGill Will Have Strong Opposition

PRACTICE TO-DAY

Only Two of Last Year's Players on Team

The McGill University Golf Team is training hard this year for the inter-collegiate contest which takes place on Friday and Saturday of this week. The Toronto Varsity Team, which plays McGill here at the end of the week, is reported to be a very strong one, and included in its number are such redoubtable players as "Sandy" Somerville, runner-up to the Canadian Champion, Frank Thompson, in the Dominion Championships held this summer, and Don Carrick, noted junior golfer.

This year a very fine cup has been presented by Dr. R. F. Rutman for inter-collegiate competition. Dr. Rutman has taken a very great interest in the golf team and has always done everything in his power to help the Golf Club in its various activities. The cup which he has presented is an exceptionally fine one, and it should do much to stimulate interest in golf in the University.

A practice match is being held to-day against a picked team of graduates, in order to give the students as much practice as possible and also that final selection for the team may be made. The team which has been chosen to play today is as follows:—

J. A. Cameron,
L. G. Mickles, Jr.,
R. N. Hayes,
A. W. Mitchell,
B. Cochrane,
W. B. Allan,
Titus Clark,
T. McAvity,
J. Gordon,
W. Powers.

Trains leave both the C.P.R. and C.N.R. Stations at 12.15 and all players have been asked to be out on time so that the match may be started punctually. All players are given credit for lectures missed.

The graduates are fielding a strong team and will afford keen opposition for the University players. Ronnie McCull, who played for Oxford two years ago and who showed his golfing ability by defeating Robert Scott, Jr. of the British graduates team. Another fine golfer who is playing against his Old University is J. H. H. Robertson, who was a semi-finalist in the French Championships this year. The Graduates Team will line up as follows:—

G. R. McCall,
J. H. H. Robertson,
A. B. Darling,
Alan McCall,
Charles Hebert,
Harold Walker,
Doug. Abbot,
Bill Sutherland.

COSTS $7 A MONTH TO BE A COLLEGE STUDENT IN CHINA

"It costs but $7 a month to go to school in China, tuition, board, and room included," declared Professor George R. Twiss, department of principles and practice of education of Ohio State University, who recently returned after spending two years studying educational conditions in that country.

The largest item of expenditure is incurred in the purchase of books. Professor Twiss says. A history that costs $4 in America sells for $10 in China, but books translated into Chinese sell for much less.

Textbooks written by Ohio State professors are used in some of the colleges in China. A Chinese college freshman studies his chemistry lessons from the same book as Ohio State freshman uses the authors being Professors William McPherson and

ENTHUSIASM KEYNOTE OF BIG CAUCUS

Opposition Policy Given to Supporters

RATIONAL PARTY

Eloquent Oratory is Heard by Large Gathering

That the Reform party really needed reform and that the Opposition would do that reforming, was one of many enthusiastic resolutions made at a spectacular rally of the opposition, held yesterday afternoon in the Union Lounge Room when many noted McGill statesmen presented a platform of safe and sane government; with equal rights for all and special privileges for none amid the hearty applause of the assembly.

"We are not resorting to soap box oratory," declared the Right Honourable Bert Wells leader of the Opposition in outlining the reasons for the calling of the caucus. He further said "What we want to do is clearly state our policy so that all who would sit on our side might know what we stand for and that what we want is a sane party, which I am certain we have."

One of the first things accomplished at the rally was the naming of the party. At the suggestion of the Hon. J. Spector it was unanimously decided to adopt the name of the Rational party.

In an eloquent outline of the accomplishments of the Rationals in Western Canada, where the leader and several of his followers made an extensive tour among the farming classes and investigated conditions throughout the Hon. J. Spector, as well as the Hon. Forsey told of the straightened conditions among the western people. The Hon. J. Spector made this statement: "At one place we were waited on by a delegation of farmers led by Aloysius T. Cornish president of the Farmers' League. He loudly praised our efforts in the interest of the Dominion stating that had the government undertaken a trip like ours it would have surely GONE WEST."

What he called the cowardly method of the Government in delaying the announcement of the text of the bill, was severely attacked by the Hon. Mr. Kelloway, who most vehemently denounced the vacillating tricks of the party in power. At the conclusion of the address a keen analysis of the bill as it would probably be submitted, no exact text being available, was made.

After much serious discussion the Rt. Hon. Bert Wells submitted to the supporters some of the ideals that the Rational party stands for. In brief they were as follows:—

- 1—An embargo to be placed on the exportation of pulp and paper.
- 2—A protest to be made to the United States on their draining of water from Lake Michigan at the expense of the St. Lawrence river.
- 3—Subsidies for McGill students and not for capitalists. Other details were also submitted, Wells stating that the party leaders had many other important ideas in mind. Unlike the meeting of the Government held earlier in the day at which soap box oratory had been resorted to, the caucus went through in a most orderly and satisfactory manner. There was no noise or blare and unlike other political meetings there was not a single heckler present. Unanimity existed and the meeting closed with a most enthusiastic manifestation on the part of those present.

It was pointed out by a prominent opposition member that the Government had overlooked the important fact that the Rational party had been returned in the Hayseed Corner by acclamation when Sir. Whistler had been chosen to represent that district in parliament. The fabricated policy of the government was soundly scored, and vague rumors were heard from some of the members who had taken the western trip to the effect that if the present government did not act quickly and rationally Western Canada would join the United States. Following this discussion, the meeting was adjourned.

FIRST YEAR OF M.S.P.E. IS INITIATED

Hostel Scene of Strange Doings Monday Evening

3-ACT PROGRAM

Addresses by Presidents and Presentation of Cups for Sports

The M. S. P. E. Hostel on Monday evening was the scene of the initiation of the new group of girls who have entered the Residence this year. For several weeks the Freshettes have been wearing green streamers attached to coat labels, but the principal part of their official welcome was tendered them Monday night.

They, the gentle Freshies, assembled and were herded into a common pen. There they donned their "evening gowns" and rearranged their coiffures to resemble that of Sis Hopkins. That estimable product by the use of which one may save all by saving the surface was then used to preserve their schoolgirl complexions. A course in physical training was given then, guaranteed to reduce the fat, develop the thin, and start the ugly on the highroad to becoming a modern Venus de Milo.

When the Seniors had admired this improved beauty, the Freshies repaid the generous upperclassmen for their endeavours by entertaining them with three vaudeville acts, one "moving" picture, one comedy, and one tragic drama.

After the performance was concluded and the Seniors had criticized the actors kindly but firmly, the Juniors were led into the open air so that a flashlight photograph might be taken while they were still in costume. Unfortunately before the company had dispersed, a local rain shower suddenly came on. This may perhaps interfere with the clarity of the photograph, or remove a few of the identification marks still remaining on some features.

As it was feared that the tender newcomers might suffer from the dampness, hot refreshments were served to counteract the sudden chill.

The president of the Second Year then formally welcomed the new members and the Juniors responded with cheers for the Seniors. Miss Cartwright and Miss Harvey now being present the dramatic performance of First Year was repeated. Miss Cartwright presented the Aggregate cup for Athletics to First Year who won it from the seniors at the Sports Day held recently. The cup for individual proficiency in sport was presented to Miss Margaret Robertson, who has now won it twice. The evening ended with dancing and the singing of College songs.

that the party leaders had many other important ideas in mind.

Unlike the meeting of the Government held earlier in the day at which soap box oratory had been resorted to, the caucus went through in a most orderly and satisfactory manner. There was no noise or blare and unlike other political meetings there was not a single heckler present. PSYCHOLOGICAL CLUB TO ORGANIZE

Open Meeting in Laboratory for Business Purposes

Today at 5 o'clock the Psychological Society of McGill University will meet to arrange a programme for the coming session in the Psychological Laboratory in the Arts Building.

There is a great deal of important business to be discussed and arrangements for a series of meetings completed. Last year several fine speakers including Professor Wm. McDougall of Harvard addressed the Club and this year other interesting speeches will be invited. Professor W. D. Tait is assisting in the work connected with the Club and the officers are desirous that there be a large attendance.

A representative from second year Arts will be selected at the meeting, and other business matters will be brought up and discussed.

The syllabus containing all information in relation to this club will be published shortly. Anyone interested in the science of Psychology is invited to join as soon as possible. The club has been formed for the purpose of enquiring into both pure and applied Psychology and to discuss problems arising from and concerning it.

PHYSICAL SOCIETY WILL HEAR DR. EVE

Interesting Programme Arranged for Friday Afternoon

The Physical Society will begin activities for this session on Friday at 5 p.m. when Dr. A. S. Eve, F.R.S., will speak on "The Toronto Meeting of the British Association—Notes and Experiments." He will demonstrate some of the experiments shown in Toronto by the Norwegian physicist, Dr. Bjerknes, who has done extensive work on the forces acting upon, and employed in lifting aeroplanes.

He shows that the theory which explains the motion of a golf ball upon which a spin has been put, can be applied to a spinning cylinder; while the experiments illustrating the resulting motion will be of great interest.

Reference will be made to some of the outstanding papers delivered by Professor W. L. Bragg, on the recent work on crystal analysis with X-rays; by Sir E. Rutherford on his investigations into atomic structure; by Professor S. C. McLenman on spectroscopic investigation under low temperature conditions and the production of liquid helium; and also by others who reported advances in various branches of physics.

An interesting feature of the programme will be an exhibition of the new Alpha Ray Track Projector, which was made in the Macdonald physics Building by Mr. H. T. Pye. This is the first time that it has been possible to show an audience the tracks made by individual Alpha particles; the C. T. R. Wilson expansion apparatus, and the Shimizu modification of it being only suitable for individual observers and special photographic work.

All members of the University interested in Natural Philosophy have been invited to attend the meetings of the Physical Society which takes place as a general rule on alternate Fridays throughout the year. A further announcement regarding this week's meeting will appear in the Daily on Friday morning.

DAILY STAFF.

All those who are connected with the Daily as reporters, night editors, etc., are expected to attend a general staff meeting on Thursday evening, at 7.30, in the Daily Office.

Mr. Wright, editorial writer of the Montreal "Star," will speak on various phases of newspaper work.

At 7 o'clock of the same evening all members of the news and managing boards will convene in the office.

PARLIAMENT TO DEBATE COAL BONUS

Second Session at 8.30 P.M. in Union

FEELING RUNS HIGH

Ministers of Mines and Fisheries, and of Interior Were East

Tonight, the second session of Mock Parliament in the hall room of the Union and the third reading of the Coal Bonus Bill will be given. The text of the Bill is that this government do hereby enact that, beginning Oct. 1 1924 to Oct. 1 1934, a bonus of one dollar and fifty cents per ton be given to coal mined in Nova Scotia and from Oct. 1 1934 to Oct. 1 1944 a bonus of one dollar ($100) a ton be given.

The debate on the bill will probably begin about 8.30 p.m. and judging from the small talk of the big guns of the Opposition they will endeavor to force a division of the house. The acting Prime Minister Hon. Art Lloyd, when interviewed, stated that he was well aware of what the Opposition intended to do and that he was sure that the division would result in a large majority for the government. The bill tonight will be introduced by Hon. Gordie Nairn, Minister of Mines and Fisheries and he will be supported by Hon. Bob Fortune, Minister of Interior and Hon. James, Minister of Militia Hon. R. V. Fortune, when interviewed at the Daily office, regarding a campaign from which he has just returned stated that a wave of approval in favour of the government seemed to be sweeping the country. Hon. Gordie Nairn, after interviewing the operators and mines concerned, stated that Nova Scotia is preparing to celebrate the passing of this bill with great rejoicing.

It is said that the state of depression which has prevailed with the fear of many thousands of wage earners being thrown out of work was being dispelled, coincident with the active interest the government is taking in their affairs. The people greatly appreciate this earnest attempt to pass legislation in the interests of Canadian industry. The chief whip states that all the members will be in their places when the division takes place tonight and is looking for a government majority of seventy or more.

McGILL MASONS TO HOLD BANQUET

Special Speakers Have Been Secured for Dinner at Temple

The McGill Masonic Club will hold their first regular meeting and dinner at the Temple at 6 P. M. to-day.

The banquet should prove to be very interesting to those attending, due to the good fortune of the executive in being able to secure the Right Worshipful Brother D. McLennan as speaker.

The McGill Masonic Club was just inaugurated here last year and has been very successful. The meetings held in the past have proved exceptionally interesting and instructive.

The programme planned for this year will be even better than that of last; many notable speakers have already consented to speak on different occasions.

Later in the year, the Club plans to visit several of the local lodges, in order that they may become better acquainted. At the meeting tonight, the Club Orchestra will make their initial appearance.

As there are only four or five meetings during the entire year, it is expected that every member will attend and give his support. A very special invitation has been extended to Masons who are at McGill for the first time.

CASH VALUE OF A COLLEGE EDUCATION IS GREAT SAYS DEAN

The cash value of a college education to its possessor is $72,000, according to a report made public recently by Dean Everett W. Lord, of the Boston University College of Business administration. The report is based on a long study of the earning capacity of college graduates. The cash value of a high school education is placed by the report $33,000.

The report places the average maximum income of the untrained man at $1,200; that of a high school graduate at $2,200, and of the college graduate at $6,000. The total earnings of each of the three types up to the age of 30 are placed at $45,000, $78,000, and $160,000 respectively. Dean Lord in his computation estimated also that while the untrained man at the age of 50 begins to drop toward dependence, the college man reaches his maximum earning capacity of 60.

"The untrained man goes to work as a boy of 14 and reaches his maximum income at the age of 30," the report said. "The maximum is on the average less than $1,200 a year. In view of the facts that this income is earned through manual labor, dependent on physical strength, it begins to fall off at the age of 50 or even earlier, and soon reaches a level below self support."

The figures show that more than 60 of every 100 untrained workers dependent on others for support the age of 60. The total earnings of the untrained man from 14 to 60 is about $45,000. Between the ages of 14 and 18 the four years which have been spent in high school, a young man usually earns not less than $2,000.

MONTREAL, WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 22, 1924.

THE MOCK PARLIAMENT.

The second Mock Parliament of the session will convene in the assembly hall of the Union at eight o'clock this evening. This is a statement which should be of the greatest interest to every undergraduate at McGill, for an organization of this nature performs one of the truly important educational functions.

A student may have all the necessary ability, he may stuff his brain with numerous items of information, and even get a fair mark in his examinations, but if he cannot use that knowledge in practical service to the world, it profits him nothing. To rise at all, a man must be able to express himself cogently and concisely. Expression is the ability to provide a suitable setting for the fleeting ideas of invention. Ideas and all creations of the imagination, no matter how pertinent or reasonable they may be, if not well expressed are doomed. Many a student in later life has found himself greatly handicapped for that simple reason; he could not say what he wished without hesitation or embarrassment, and therefore could not command the attention which perhaps his thoughts deserved. In every walk of life the fluent, convincing speaker has a great advantage.

The Mock Parliament, as well as debating and oratory, plays a big part in training of this nature. The impromptu speaking, the need of having the facts at one's finger tips, the necessity for smooth, even delivery and quick repartee, these are all vital to success in any vocation. It is a sad fact that not only have they meagre information on current issues of great importance, but the majority of our people are ignorant of current parliamentary procedure. Every student graduating from McGill should be thoroughly conversant with these formalities. The Mock Parliament thus serves a double purpose owing to the fact that here are threshed out crucial questions of current import to the country. Secondly, it is carried on according to correct parliamentary procedure, and so performs an invaluable service in the liberal education of the undergraduate.

Thus we see that proceedings such as those taking place tonight are an integral part of our education. We can get from them only as much as we put in. The standard is as high as we make it, and the opportunity to profit is open to all.

HARRIERS IN TRAINING FOR FINAL MEET

Many Run Long Course Around the Mountain
TRIP TO KINGSTON
Team to be Chosen from Best Performers in Interfaculty Meet, Saturday

When the Harriers leave the starting post in their annual Interfaculty race next Saturday morning at 11.15, each-long distance runner in the University will be a competitor. At least, that is the aim of the club executive, who are desirous that every Harrier, and especially any freshman, who wishes take part. The championship will go to the Faculty which will be the first to have four of its members cross the finishing line. As many men who have the inclination may race for their faculty, but only the premier quartette will count in the final decision.

The following Saturday, the McGill Harriers will meet the representatives of other institutions in the Union, in Kingston, where they will race in the morning and spend the afternoon as they please. Six men from McGill will make the trip, although five only will compete, one man being carried as spare.

The members of the Intercollegiate team will probably be chosen from those prominent in the Interfaculty meet on Saturday morning. Although no method of selection has been definitely decided, in all likelihood, the first four men in the college race will be assured of places, while the next four will run again early next week to choose the fifth and sixth men.

The coach has asked that every possible man enter this race. Last year only twenty competed, but a more encouraging turn out is expected this fall. The executive are holding two practices over the Long course to-day in order to teach newcomers the route. Manager Brain will leave the Field House about four while captain Kerr follows suit an hour later.

The club has arranged a busy programme for this autumn. On next Saturday, there will be, of course, the Interfaculty Championship, followed in a week by the Intercollegiate struggle. On one of the two succeeding weekends, it is hoped, McGill will encounter the representatives of an American college, while on November 23 the Dunlop Road Race of the North Branch Y. M. C. A. takes place. In this contest, McGill hopes to enter two teams of five men each.

But the success of these plans is dependent on the number of entries competing Saturday. Each competitor will probably cover the long course to-day, the short three-mile one tomorrow and next on Friday. Last night about a score of men ran the three mile route, while at least one did the longer grind.

ARTS '28 ARRANGE FOR ANNUAL BANQUET

Arts '28 made their final arrangements for the freshmen-sophomore banquet, which is being held at the Union on Thursday night, at a meeting in the Biological Building yesterday.

G. Nairn, representing the Students' Council spoke to the class for a few moments concerning the banquet. He said that this annual dinner given to the sophomores by the freshmen had been a college practice for many years, and he hoped that all the Freshmen in Arts would support their executive in their arrangements for the banquet. He also urged the class to stage their dinner at the Union if possible.

Kerr, the president, then addressed the meeting and asked that there be a full turnout on Thursday night. He said that the executive were having a hard time getting the required funds, and that he was sure that the necessary fee of $4.00 was not too much for the majority of the class to pay.

A pianist and violinist were also selected to help with the evening's entertainment, and when the gathering adjourned practically every member of the class had signed his intention of attending the banquet, and doing his share in making it a great success.

R.V.C. SEMI-FINALS NOW COMPLETED

Miss De Blois Wins in Straight Sets

The second semi-finals of the R. V. C. tennis tournament were played off yesterday morning on the Hollow courts when Miss de Blois defeated Miss Stocking in two straight sets the score being (7-5) (6-2).

Miss Stocking took the first service and the first game was won by Miss de Blois. Miss Stocking won the fourth following games which were well contested by each player, the play reaching deuce many times.

The score then reached 5-3 in favour of Miss Stocking but Miss de Blois caught up at the critical moment and succeeded in winning the following four games bringing the score to 7-5 in her favour and thus ending the first set.

The second set began with a game to Miss Stocking, but Miss de Blois displaying her usual steadiness brought the score up to 2-1 in her favour. Again there were many deuce points and several exciting rallies. Miss Stocking won the fourth game making the score 2-1 all but Miss de Blois in four straight games ran the score up to 6-2 winning the final set and match.

Both contestants are players of exceptional ability and exhibited a most interesting game to the spectators. Miss Stocking was the champion in 1922 and played in the finals last year, while in that year Miss de Blois reached the semi-finals, showing marked improvement this year.

The finals will be played on the Hollow Courts tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock, when Miss de Blois will meet Miss Cochrane who defeated Miss Tweedie in the semi-finals last Friday.

Miss L. Desbarats, R. V. C. tennis manager, was referee at yesterday's game and will referee again to-day.

ARTS GET IN TRIM FOR GAME WITH MEDS.

At 4:00 yesterday afternoon the Arts rugby team turned out for practice on the Campus.

Clayton Bourne and Bobby Gammell were out and felt in great shape after their last game. Unfortunately however, not all the members of the team were able to be present, and those who were, had to content themselves with kicking the ball around, and to conditioning for their next game with Medicine. Both teams are confident of a win and are training faithfully. This game promises to be a headliner and the teams are hoping that a large number of spectators will be on hand to cheer on their respective teams.

DUMB-BELLS
I feel safe in estimating that not more than three people in this University have gone through life with out calling someone a dumb-bell! Yet I also feel safe in saying that not one of the people who use the cognomen know exactly what it is.

A dumb-bell, I have finally evolved is not one who knows nothing, or who does not know much—but only an insignificant insect who does not know something which you happen to know.

If you know more about planting radishes than I do, then I am a dumb-bell, but if you don't know what dumb-bell means then you are a dumb-bell too. In fact boiling things down, we are all more or less dumb-bells about something; and the worst dumb-bell of all is the man who hangs the monkey on someone else not knowing that he himself is just as dumb as the next belle. Not that belles are any more dumb than men; they are just dumb more often if you get what I mean.

The dumb-bells that you find in the Gymnasium always come in pairs. And those you find outside of the gym usually come in pairs of shoes. That is one way of distinguishing between them. And the degree of dumbness of the outside variety is indicated by the tightness of the said shoes. The tighter the shoes, the dumber they are. In fact some cases have been known to have had a rush of brains to the head as a result of wearing tight shoes. But I went to China and had my feet bound for three months and all I got was corns.

EXPERIENCED MEN
Senior Squad Getting Ready for Big Game With Kingstonians

The coach put the Senior squad through another good practice yesterday and the team is fast rounding into good shape for the game. Although no heavy work was attempted, much was accomplished in the way of conditioning the men and getting them in trim for Saturday's struggle. The practices these days are not the grueling ones that the team experienced last week, but they are equally productive in forming a good line. The coach is paying more attention to the intricate points of the game now that the team is working well together. The practice to-day consisted mainly in work on the dummy and in punting and catching. No heavy scrimmage work was attempted the coach being satisfied that the team can hold its own in this department.

Another thing that must be guarded against is the danger of overtraining, which seems to have been in a great measure responsible for the defeat suffered at the hands of Varsity. The coach is also taking great precautions to cure the squad of the bad habit of fumbling which they are likely to do in a tense moment of the game. However, fumbling seems due to overtraining in the majority of cases rather than tension or nervousness. All practices are closed ones these days which means that any one without a pass will be refused entrance. There have been several changes in the line-up and Saturday's will see quite a different team than that which lined-up against R. M. C.

The Queen's Varsity game showed that the Kingstonians are an extremely strong outfit this year. With a few exceptions, the Queen's team is composed of men who last year won the Dominion Championship. Those who have filled the gaps have filled them well and it is not too much to repeat that the Tri-colours is fully as strong this year as last. Leady and Badstone were always a dangerous combination, and their famous end runs have proven the downfall of many a good team. "Bud" Thomas, Reynolds and McKelvey are experienced linemen and great yard gainers who can be counted on as dangerous opponents. In short it is with an equally good if not better team than last year's champions that McGill must do battle on Saturday, and a battle royal will undoubtedly be the result.

VICAR WAS AFRAID OF HISSING STILL DEMON

A very small locomotive, said to be the first ever constructed, reached London recently. Over 140 years old, it was built by the famous engineer, Murdoch, and is 14in. high and 19in. long. It has two driving wheels and a front steering wheel fitted with a tiller handle.

This locomotive ran trials at Redruth in 1784. The first experiment was in Murdoch's own house, and then it was tried on the road, when, according to all accounts, it out-paced the inventor.

One night Murdoch went out with his locomotive to an avenue leading to the church about a mile from the town. The engine started off and the inventor went after it. Soon distant shouts of terror were heard. When he came up to his machine he found the vicar in great fear of the hissing, spitting little demon.

At this time Murdoch was in the employ of the firm of Boulton and Watt, and when they heard of the experiments they feared that Murdoch's energies might be distracted from the business of stationary engines. They persuaded him to drop the project and he never took up the subject again.

COLLEGE PUBLICATION FAVOURS TEMPERANCE

An editorial headed "Tolerance and Drunkenness" published in the "Michigan Daily" follows:

Coincident with the appeal of representative organizations at Michigan and Illinois for temperate conduct on the part of students at the dedication game Saturday, comes a feeling akin to shame that such action should be necessary. It remains to be seen what effect the movement for a "dry homecoming" will have, but even if it succeeds entirely, which is doubtful, the fact that it has proved necessary to urge supposedly intelligent students to remain sober while attending a football game is a reflection on American universities.

It should be made clear at once that Michigan and Illinois are no worse than a hundred other institutions of the country when excessive drinking is concerned. Indeed it would seem that in those schools the situation is not entirely discouraging in view of the definite stand taken by student leaders. In urging Michigan to cooperate, the Illinois wanted it made clear that no slander on Ann Arbor students was intended and in such a spirit has the movement been carried forward here. The fact that a considerable minority of our compatriots in the field of learning feel it essential to their happiness to lose their mental balance entirely during football games is simply a condition which every honest American educator must recognize.

In the United States there are varying opinions as to the justice and practicability of the Eighteenth amendment. Recently the University was fortunate enough to hear an intelligent discussion of opposing viewpoints on the question in the Oxford-Michigan debate. Supporters of the amendment enunciated the principle that the wish of the majority should control the conduct of the minority. On the other hand was emphasized the basic necessity for maintenance of individual liberty. The Americans painted a picture of decreased crime and increased savings deposits in banks; the British poked fun at our law enforcement, and eulogized intoxicants as the inspiration for all that is greatest in art and literature. Neither side was able to prove conclusively the justice of their position, and the equity of Eighteenth amendment has little place in the discussion of the deplorable situation in our universities and colleges. Prohibition has assumed a definite place in our life and seems to have brought with it a feeling of bravado concerning the excessive indulgence in the forbidden beverages. The principal problem for us is found not in the fact that students drink, but that they get drunk in places where their conduct is both disgusting and slanderous.

Some people when considering this will say that here, as in the question of prohibition, individual liberty is at issue. The cry will be raised that the majority has no right to determine the conduct of the minority, that individual reputation is the only question involved. Whatever the case may be the justice of this contention when prohibition and moderate drinking are concerned, such an argument has no foundation in support of drunkenness in public. The good name of the entire student body is affected. The public comes to believe that each and every student is as weak as the person reeling up the aisle of the stadium.

Granted that all the above is true, however, discussion and commiseration, will be of little avail if no remedy is found. No amount of mere talking will change conditions. The real trouble is that of that majority which can conduct itself properly on public occasions, very few have the courage to take a stand against drunkenness. It is a student does not make a practice of becoming intoxicated he is more than likely to assume an air of easy tolerance, even of commendation. The house drunkard is placed on a pedestal as a person of exceeding experience in worldly matters, of great sophistication, when he should be ridiculed as a person of small judgement and inferior intellectual capacity. It is time that those who have principles in the matter take a stand and make it known, that the capacity for drunkenness become a matter of sorrow instead of humor, that the ability to imbibe to excess lower rather than raise social standing.

The position taken by the Student Councils of Illinois and Michigan, the honorary societies and organizations of the former institution, if entirely sincere, is highly commendable and should be cause for elation among intelligent students. If more leaders and other respected persons will come

Railroad trains, when their novelty has worn off, are most deadly affairs. We can remember when a ride on one was a treat to command our undivided attention, and an overnight trip was an excursion into a mysterious realm. But here a proof of the old adage that "familiarity breeds contempt," for a railway journey now is to most of us a boring ordeal—unless one has a good book.

We asked a bookseller in a Chicago station a few weeks ago what books the average traveller preferred on his journey. His reply was—Sabbath. Nearly half of his customers had bought one or more of "The modern Dumas" adventure stories to combat the fatigue of their trip. We wonder why; and so we bought "The Banner of the Bull" and embarked for Boston. Now we know why, and are firm converts to Sabbathism.

PLANS FOR THE INFORMAL ARE UNIQUE

Social Activities Commence on Friday Evening
NO PRINCE ALBERTS
Special Music and Novel Forms of Entertainment

Social activities for the year will begin on Friday night, with the Informal Dance, which is being held at the Union.

The informal is always a very popular event at the University, and as this opening one is the first real social event of the year, it will certainly be over-patronized.

The ball room has been recently renovated, and redecorated, and the dance will serve as an opening celebration.

As usual, excellent refreshments will be served. The Union is looking after this end of the entertainment, so the very best of service is ensured.

Cliff Kenzie's "Collegian" Orchestra will provide the music for the evening, and they may be depended upon to put lots of life into the dances. Included in the orchestra are Willard Crocker and Ivan Burwell, both experts in the art of entertainment, and the management are indeed fortunate in obtaining such a fine orchestra for the dance.

One of the most popular features of the ball is that it is absolutely informal in every respect. Tuxedos are banned, and undergraduates with new evening clothes will have to wait till another time to show them off to the world.

Many freshmen have signified their intention of being present, and men of the other years will undoubtedly turn out in large numbers.

The eagerness of the freshmen to be present on Friday night is said to be due to the attractive class of young ladies with whom they have been associated during the past few weeks, while many men of other years are reported to be turning out for the same reason.

Several novel forms of entertainment are being prepared by the committee in charge, and if these come up to previous standards, as they undoubtedly will, everyone who attends should have an excellent evening.

The tickets go on sale at the Union at 1 o'clock to-day. There are only a limited number of pasteboards on sale, and as the crowd is expected to be even larger than last year, all those desiring to attend would do well to purchase their tickets as soon as possible.

THE FENCING CLUB BEGINS WORKOUTS

The Fencing Club began work for the season in Strathcona Hall at 5 o'clock. The lateness in the commencement of practices this year was due to renovations that were made in the Strathcona Hall. However this unavoidable delay did not seem to dampen enthusiasm for fencing as there was a goodly turnout, thirty-five being present. Practically all inattendance were men new in the field of foil.

Several of the newcomers under the very able instruction of M. Dougherty, known to many here as an ardent enthusiast of fencing, displayed real ability for novices and may well be counted on to do their bit in retaining the Fencing Championship for McGill in the coming B. W. and F. meet.

Practice will now become regular, as all repair work has been completed and the next will be next Thursday from 5-6 p. m.

CAMPUS CLOTHES

With college now in full swing, the average young woman thinks of her attire. The fall fashion shows have many splendid inspirations for "fixing up" and "fixing over."

The predominant colors this year are russet, shutter-green, penny-brown and fuschia.

Fur on coats, dresses and evening gowns is used a great deal, especially on the collars, cuffs and bottoms of coats. The coats are shorted and belted.

For campus wear either narrow pleated or wrap-around skirts are worn. Crisp blouses, brush-wool sweaters and bright ties are still in good taste. Low-heeled oxfords with gay to almost hilarious hosiery complete the perfect campus queen.

Oh, yes, hats! They are square crowned or close fitting. The manish Bobby hat is very popular.

All sorts of novelty jewelry, including croaker beads and rings give the touches.

Morgan has been classed as one of the "Rich." Lots of students may be rich but still they have something in common with Morgan.

PARLIAMENT DOORS CLOSE AFTER 9 P.M.

President of Literary and Debating Society Desires Large Turnout

"I want it to be clearly understood by all the first year men that they are members of the Mock Parliament and fully entitled to sit with any party they choose to support," declared Bert Wells, president of the McGill Literary and Debating Society in conversation with a Daily reporter last night.

Wells urged the turnout of all freshmen in order that they might participate in what is termed "one of the biggest things that the literary society is trying to promote."

He issued a message however not only to the new men but also to the men of higher years saying that it was their duty to support the Parliament even as they supported the various athletic fixtures and stating that it was essential that the opening meeting of the parliament be well attended by the undergraduates.

Extra accommodation is being provided this year for the outside public so that any one interested will be able to be present and hear the keen debate that is anticipated.

Wells stated that according to new rulings the doors of the Union ballroom would be closed after 9 o'clock so as to prevent anyone turning up at the last minute to vote without having been present all evening at the debate.

He pointed out that no burlesquing would be tolerated and while wit and epigram would be welcomed a mere show of buffoonery could not be allowed.

"We want to make our debating society one of the biggest organizations of its kind in the Dominion, in fact we can make it the biggest," Wells stated at the close of the interview.

Cigarettes and drinking aren't lady-like.

Girls are growing prettier. Beautiful girls aren't dumb. These are the beliefs of "Miss West Palm Beach," otherwise Miss Frances Payne, prize-winning beauty in the annual beauty pageant at Atlantic City, who is visiting for a few days in Ann Arbor.

"Although I have been in Ann Arbor but a short time I have seen a surprisingly large number of beautiful girls on the campus of Michigan University," Miss Payne enthusiastically declared. "Co-eds at the University seem to be young women of personality and grace."

"On the whole beauty has become a common thing. The modern girl is growing prettier, and the day of the wall flower is disappearing. And why shouldn't it? Girls now have every conceivable aid to beauty, and they should blame themselves if they do not appear attractive."

While she upheld the morals of the girl of today, Miss Payne would not condone cigarettes and drinking. "Smoking and drinking are distinctly unladylike, and should not be indulged in. To me the habits are repulsive."

She heartily approved of the present mode of dress. "Shorter skirts and sensible dresses give girls greater freedom and allow them to appear more human."

"The presence of beauty does not indicate the appalling absence of intelligence. It was sheer prejudice on the part of the man who referred to us as the beautiful dumb. I believe that beauty and brains go hand in hand. Intelligence counted greatly in the pageant, and 'Miss Philadelphia' who won this year's contest, was a young woman of culture and refinement."

Participants in the pageant were provided with uniform attire, and in general the old fashioned type of beauty seemed to appeal most to the judges. "Miss Philadelphia" is unusually tall, with long, dark hair. Only two girls minus their "crowning glory" won prizes in the contest.

Solomon in all his glory Would have left his thousand wives If he'd seen you, matchless maiden, With your deep, transcendent eyes.

Caesar never would have bothered With his Cleo on the Nile If he'd seen you, divine damsel, With your evanescent smile.

Is it then a thing of wonder That the campus princes race To acclaim your perfect beauty, And pay tribute to your grace? —Gump

Chapel exercises are held daily in the main building at the University of Texas, and talks are made to the students each morning by various professors and pastors of the University churches. The services begin at 7:35 each morning, and last for 20 minutes, including hymns and devotional exercises. Attendance is voluntary, but many students are present for the exercises each morning.

A HEARTY MEAL

FRESHETTES SAVED WHEN GRANDFATHER CLOCK STRIKES FIVE

Hidden in the old grandfather clock in the R. V. C. gymnasium the star Daily cub reporter received the following unusual and unique story. It is given here in the reporters own words. The clock in the R. V. C. gymnasium struck as he struck four; life was so dull that year! Just then there was a loud noise and he looked down to see what was causing the disturbance. The gym seemed suddenly filled with queer creatures some clad in flowing black robes, others wearing gym tunics, blouses on back to front, one black and one white stocking a handkerchief tied over the eyes and hands tied securely behind. What was this? Never had he seen such things before. Just then he heard music and the black and white figures began to move slowly round the room, ah yes, he remembered, this was the snake march. Suddenly a whistle blew and several of the figures rushed in black rushed forward and seized a number of the prisoners and carried them off to various corners of the room. At far end he beheld several black and white figures kneeling before a fair co-ed and although he listened carefully the only words he could catch were "I promise to obey and respect the Sophomores"—why of course the people in black were the sophomores. He remembered now this was initiation! In one corner the prisoners, still blind folded, fed each other corn flakes, and in another a soda biscuits eating contest went on while four of the gym-suffied figures rolled peanuts with their noses down the middle of the hall. The clock became interested in a speech on Cleopatra but was rudely interrupted by a cry of "Scrub Freshie!" and looked down to see a poor little Freshie laboriously using a big brush on the gym floor. Just then there was a shriek followed by several low moans and he caught a glimpse of a gaunt white, white ghost dragging a pitiful little Freshie into a dark cavern—This must be the "Chamber of Horrors" which he had heard the Sophomores whispering about. He gazed at the crowd and wondered what was coming next when he noticed that the faces of all the Freshies were smeared with red and black paint. Really this was too much and the clock determined to put an end to all torture so he struck five immediately. You see he knew that 5 o'clock was tea time and that upstairs in the common room several members of the faculty and the presidents of various societies were waiting to welcome the Freshies and to help them enjoy the gaily decorated birthday cake provided for them by the Sophomores.

COMMERCE HOPES TO DEFEAT LAW OUTFIT

The Faculty of Commerce rugby team turned out for practice yesterday afternoon in preparation for their game with the Law aggregation which takes place shortly. All the men have recovered from any small injury they may have received in their last game and feel confident of their ability to beat the strong line-up representing Law.

The men engaged in kicking the ball around and they went through a stiff signal practice. After going through their paces for about one hour they retired to the showers, and all appeared to be in good trim.

The Commerce men have also perfected their signals with the result that the organization works much more smoothly.

English readers find our Indian place nouns, like Mattawamkeag, queer. Well, here are ten English towns taken by us from a long list compiled by a London "Daily Mail" correspondent: Hush Champflower, Ryme Intrinsloe, Toller Porcorin, Nether Walop, Great Snoring, Pearl Monachorina Swine, Prouchasewek, Barton in the Beans, and Kingston Bagpuzo.—Outlook.

THE WAY OF A GIRL WITH AN AUTOMOBILE

I saw her first in the P.O., I was weary and ill at ease; Love at first sight was the trouble. She was pledged to the Awful Pleas.

She was quite the campus sensation. She had the boys all taken aback. She got away like a million. For she drove a Cadillac.

THE JUNE BALL.

The girls (like Kipling's Gunga Din) Were very lightly clad.
The orchestra it jazzed and jazzed.
The summer night was mad.
The cowbells clanged, while over all The lovely saxophone Sent sad primeval shivers down Each oblivious back bone.
But all too soon the dance was stopped.
The instruments fell dumb;
To bring an end to our delight A workman's day had come.
C. Vokes—in R. M. C. Review.

The same streets, the same walks,
The same rows of trees,
Different books, different talks,
Diversions as you please.

The same men, yet different men,
Men who've grown to see—
The worth of what they're working for,
The worth to you and me.

The same words, yet different words,
And now much more, they mean,
The same thoughts, yet different thoughts,
With all their import seen.

The same days, yet different days,
A different world to view
And hours that pass too quickly
For me and for you.
